

YANKS VIEW ROME AFTER GAINING VITAL HILLS

Sec. Stimson Declares Period Of Decisive Action Is At Hand

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

WITH FURIOUS FIGHTING proceeding only 15 miles from Rome—so close that at one point today our Doughboys could see the dome of old St. Peter's—it's small wonder that world anxiety for the Italian capital's welfare should intensify.

The Allies have made it clear they will do their utmost to preserve the Eternal City, which not only houses the Holy See but whose site was inhabited as far back as Neolithic days and thus is one of the earliest milestones in the progress of mankind. What the Nazis may do is another matter.

When Pope Pius appealed to the Allied and German leaders March 12 to spare Rome from becoming a battleground, Secretary of State Hull said the Allies hoped this could be done. Hull added that the blame would be on the Germans if Rome did suffer. President Roosevelt a few days later, in a note to Premier De Valera of Eire, said substantially the same thing. The latest Allied statement was by British Prime Minister Churchill last week when he declared:

"We have great hopes that the city of Rome will be preserved from the struggle of our armies."

Churchill didn't explain this seemingly optimistic forecast. We know the Allies will do their best to shield Rome but, as he remarked, it's impossible to forecast what the Germans will do on their retreat from Italy "in the way of destruction to a people they hate and despise."

Perhaps the prime minister's view was based on the thought that the Germans may not try to hold Rome—not because of desire to spare the city but to save their own skins. I don't believe the present determined resistance by the Nazis in the powerful defenses of the Alban foothills below Rome is in itself proof that they intend to hang on to a finish.

Whatever German Field Marshal Kesselring may intend to do about holding Rome, he has no choice at this juncture but to defend the approaches to the city until he has rescued as many as he can of his mauled forces which are retreating along bombed roads, all of which lead to Rome. The capital is the hub of Italy's highways and railways. He must clear his army through there to reach new defenses to the north. If the Allies should occupy Rome now, great numbers of German troops would be cut off.

Hitler's propagandists are informing their public—and the world—that the Nazis will withdraw to the north of Rome—that its occupation by the Allies doesn't matter. One looks for catches in enemy propaganda, but this might mean what it says. One good reason may lie here:

Berlin itself is predicting a possible Allied landing on the Italian coast above Rome from the island of Corsica. Such an invasion, if successful, would cut Kesselring off from the north and might result in annihilation of virtually his entire force. Hitler couldn't afford that.

Farm Prospects Are Bright After Warmest May In County History

The month just ended was the warmest May on record. Weather Observer L. H. Copeland revealed today in his report which shows that at the beginning of May the season was 15 days behind schedule and with the end of the month it was a week ahead.

The mean temperature for the month was 65.1, setting an all-time record as to temperature in Columbiana county in the 51-year-period records have been kept. There was practically no spring, Copeland says, summer arriving on May 1.

The nearest approach in average temperatures for the same month was in 1918 when the records show a mean temperature of 62.5. In May, 1943, the mean was 55.9. Normal temperature for the 51 years is 57.9.

The mean maximum temperature last month was 79.7 and the mean minimum, 50.4, with a high of 89 on May 30 and a minimum of 32 on the seventh. A year ago the high was 86 and the low 24. Temperatures stood at 80 or higher on 20 days of the month.

Precipitation last month totaled only 3.45, compared with that of a year ago which was 4.76 inches. Sunshine for the month was 65 per cent, while last year at the same time it was only 20 per cent. On 11 days of the month there was more than an inch of precipitation, with 10 clear days, 18 partly cloudy and three, cloudy. In the same period a year ago there were 23 days of rain. Numerous electrical, rain and hail storms visited the county last month, the observer reported.

May, 1924, was the coolest on record, with temperature of only 51.6. The same month in 1929 stands as the wettest in the 51 years, with total precipitation of 6.50 inches. The driest may was in 1934 when only .62 inches of rain fell during the entire month.

In a survey of growing conditions, Copeland says that all vegetables are making spectacular growth. Wheat, meadows, oats and early planted corn and pastures are very promising. Much corn was planted late in May due to excessive rain, especially in lowland sections. At this time last year only half the oats were planted and one quarter of the corn crop was in.

Prospects are good for fruit and berry crops and the weather man pictures the farmer as "sitting on top of the earth as far as crop prospects are concerned."

The year is now ahead 745 degrees in temperature and short .58 inches in precipitation.

385 Abandon Portuguese Ship But Nazi Sub Fails To Sink It

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—A German submarine stopped the neutral Portuguese refugee ship Serpa Pinto off Bermuda on a clear dark night and a calm sea last Friday, took 200 prisoners and warned the 385 crew members and passengers the ship would be sunk.

Three lives, including that of a 16-month-old baby, Beatrice Traupnick, were lost in the rush to launch lifeboats.

One of those who fled the ship, Tony Ribeiro, who came to the U. S. to go into business with his brother, David, of Gloucester, Mass., said yesterday.

"I was asleep in my cabin when the Nazis came aboard. The lifeboat was in the water around 3 a. m. to noon. It was about noon when the submarine—only its periscope showing—moved away."

The U-boat abandoned preparations to torpedo the ship after wireless orders from Berlin.

Passengers and crew reboarded the ship while the submarine hovered close at hand. It docked here secretly late Tuesday and the Navy disclosed the story yesterday.

The dead baby was the child of Abraham and Eva Traupnick, Polish refugees bound for Canada. Other victims were Antonio Ferreira Machado, ship's doctor, who fell into the sea from a Jacob's ladder, and Hermano Antonio, ship's cook, killed by a blow from a block on a lifeboat tackle.

Taken Prisoner
The captured Americans were Manuel Pinto, 22, of Waterbury, Conn., and Virgilio Magina, 22, of New Bedford, Mass. The German also took a Canadian native and British subject, Camillo Grande Perez, 24, aboard the submarine but later released him.

Pinto, a farmer who had been in Portugal for a number of years, was the ship's chief officer.

Mrs. Maria A. Chaves, 35, of Fall River, Mass., coming to join her husband, said she almost drowned when the liner was ordered abandoned.

The Navy said the Serpa Pinto was stopped by gunfire and signals at 12:05 last Friday and that her captain, Americo Dos Santos, was summoned to the bridge when blinker signals were sighted. Engines stopped at 12:30.

Some passengers were allowed to go to their homes yesterday after questioning by immigration officials. The rest were kept aboard but it is expected that all will pass through immigration routine today.

15 Allied Divisions In Africa, Is Report

LONDON, June 1.—The Berlin radio asserted today that 15 Allied divisions, five of them tank, were concentrated in French North Africa for an attack on southern France.

The official DNB dispatch said the 10 infantry and five tank divisions will enter the battle scene in conjunction with Gen. Eisenhower's invasion of the west coast of Europe. The troops were said to include Moroccan and Algerian units.

The report said it was possible the Allied command would turn the liberated French island of Corsica, which lies within 103 miles of continental France, into a grand style invasion springboard. The Germans speculated that the Italian Riviera also might be an invasion objective.

None Injured As Sleeper Of Express Is Derailed

METUCHEN, N. J., June 1.—Several cars of a freight train and the sleeper on the Washington-Boston Express were derailed early today from eastbound tracks on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad three miles west of here.

No one was injured in the derailment which railroad spokesmen said was caused by the collapse of flooring on a moving freight car and the spilling onto the roadbed of a load of brass.

Work plants operated with reduced staffs but there were no reports of any shutdowns or production curtailments.

SAYS 3,657,000 ARMY TROOPS NOW OVERSEAS

Deployment of Air and Service Forces Practically Completed

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 1.—Secretary of War Stimson said today that with 3,657,000 army troops already overseas, the deployment of air and service forces is practically completed "and the period of decisive action is at hand."

The bulk of forces now moving out of the United States to combat areas is composed of ground troops prepared to use the bases and take advantage of the preliminary air assaults for the final blows against the enemy, the secretary told a news conference today.

"The United States army today has 3,657,000 soldiers deployed outside the continental United States in theaters of operation throughout the world, striking and preparing to strike victory-winning blows by land, from the sea and in the air against Germany and Japan."

"This force, at the end of projected supply lines stretching more than 56,000 miles and reaching into every continent, represents approximately 47 per cent of the total strength of the Army."

"By the end of 1944, the number of troops overseas will be increased to more than 5,000,000 men, approximately two-thirds of total strength."

Nearing a Peak
Overseas deployment of necessity came first for the Supply and Air Forces, Stimson noted, since it was necessary to build up the bases for the army and the air forces against the enemy. Those bases now are established, he said, and shipping is available for the movement of ground forces to the overseas theaters. This movement "rapidly is nearing the peak."

Stimson said the overseas strength of the Army exceeds the peak overseas strength in World War I by 1,571,000 men, and is only 400,000 men short of the total strength of the Army at the close of the World War.

In speaking of the overseas deployment, Stimson explained his reference was to total strength, not to overseas location of the forces, which will have to be shifted at least in part, as the campaigns develop. The movement has been made according to a minutely defined pattern set by the United

WMC DRIVE HERE PRODUCES RESULTS

Arthur S. Johnston, U. S. Employment Service office manager, today reported encouraging results from efforts of the WMC mobile recruiting unit, which is continuing an intensive campaign to uncover northern Columbiana county workers who are not now employed in essential war work.

As the result of this side-walk canvassing, incoming traffic at the Employment office increased approximately 30 per cent over last week, he said. "If the momentum continues, there is every indication our goal will be reached," he added.

WMC representatives are scouring the city distributing posters and handbills to all persons who, it is ascertained, are not now engaged in war useful jobs. The drive was to continue through today after which the crew moves on to Columbus for a similar program.

STREETCARS, BUSES IDLE IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—Fourteen hundred street cars and buses were idle today in a sudden strike of 3,600 operators of the St. Louis Public Service Co., which stranded thousands of persons on street corners in the morning rush for work.

The unauthorized walkout of members of the AFL Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees was blamed on an overtime pay controversy.

Virtually every private automobile was pressed into service as word of the transportation tie-up spread through the city and police described traffic as "worse than before the war."

Police in the suburbs stopped automobiles at main intersections, informed drivers of the strike, and asked them to fill their cars with passengers on their way downtown.

Work plants operated with reduced staffs but there were no reports of any shutdowns or production curtailments.

Rescue More Than 1,000 Navy Men Off Coast

Rescue of more than 1,000 U. S. Navy personnel from the Liberty ship Henry Bergh, aground on the jagged rocks of Farallone Island, 30 miles off San Francisco, has been accomplished by destroyers and small patrol craft. The ship, bringing hundreds of Navy men home from the Pacific war zone, struck before dawn while heading for the Golden Gate in a heavy sea. Some of those rescued are shown arriving at the Navy base at San Francisco. (International Soundphoto.)

BOMBS SMASH FRENCH COAST

Nazi Defense Installations Are Softened In New Night Air Foray

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 1.—In simultaneous overnight assaults, powerful forces of RAF bombers hammered Nazi defense installations along the French channel coast and fanned out over a 200-mile front in France to blast three of the largest railroad centers through which the Germans are shuttling their forces to meet the impending Allied invasion.

Murky weather prevailed over the English channel early today, however, and there were no signs of daylight aerial operations from Britain—the first lull in the Allied offensive in two weeks, although heavy bombers did not go out last Friday. At 5 a. m. (3 a. m. EWT) the German radio reported the Reich was free of enemy planes and one hour later broadcast that "single enemy planes were approaching"—apparently on reconnaissance missions.

(The whole Vichy radio network composed of the Lyon, Marseille, Limoges and Vichy stations, went off the air at 12:31 p. m. (6:31 a. m. EWT) today, however, indicating an Allied air attack may be in progress in southern France.)

In the rail center attacks last night some 500 RAF night bombers smashed the Trappes yards 16 miles outside Paris, Tergnier 75 miles northeast of Paris and Saumur 150 miles southwest of Paris. Eight British planes failed to return from the operations, which included mine laying in enemy waters, the Air ministry announced. Probably well over 2,200 tons of bombs were dropped in the night attacks.

After a one-night interval the Germans again sent some planes against England. These raiders dropped over East Anglia and dropped a few bombs, but they appeared to be mainly "on the snoop." It was officially reported that no one was hurt by the German foray and only slight damage was caused.

In daylight raids yesterday powerful forces totaling possibly 3,500 Allied planes struck from the west and south, bombarding the four German rail centers of Hamm, Osnabruck, Schweinfurt and Soest and the Nazi oil source at Ploesti in Rumania.

Potters' Vacations Approved By WLB

Approximately 18,000 pottery employees who have been working a year or more in plants affiliated with the United States Pottery association today were granted one week vacations with pay.

The regional War Labor board announced it had reconsidered a previous order at the direction of the national WLB and had ordered one-week vacations for all employees with a year or more of service. Industry members dissented from the order.

The regional board's original order provided for a one-day vacation for each year of the employee's service up to a maximum of one week. The company was to determine whether the week should be considered as five days or six days. The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters appealed the decision to the national WLB which ordered reconsideration by the regional board.

CHANGE POINTS ON SOME FOOD ITEMS

Meats Now Ration-Free Will Continue So During Month of June

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 1.—All meats now ration-free will continue so during the period through July 1, the Office of Price Administration said today in announcing these principal changes in the point values on other commodities:

Canned carrots, orange juice, grapefruit juice and blended orange and grapefruit juice are added to the long list of point-free processed foods.

All varieties of cheese and cheese products are reduced two points to a new value of 10 points. The ration cost of canned evaporated and condensed milk is halved, dropping from one point for a pound to a half point.

The only increases ordered are for pineapple juice, up three points to 15 for a No. 2 can, and grape juice, boosted four points to 10 for a pint container.

Butter stays at 12 points a pound and margarine at two points. Choice beef steaks and roasts continue to be the only meat cuts requiring ration stamps. Values are unchanged with one exception: Chuck steaks and roasts are cut two points a pound. Flank steak remains point-free.

All grade D beef is removed from rationing for the June period, but OPA said very few steaks and roasts of this lower quality are sold at retail. Most of the meat from these animals is made into hamburger and sausage.

June Supplies Better
In continuing the ration-free meat bargains, the agency said over-all civilian supply for June averages 310,136,000 pounds a week, a 9.6 per cent increase over the 282,859,000 pounds a week in May.

Beef, veal, lamb, mutton and variety meats will be in more plentiful supply in the new period.

Driver Dozes and Car Strikes Truck

A truck and a car crashed yesterday afternoon on the Columbiana-North Lima road, just one-tenth of a mile southwest of North Lima, and the driver of the car, Raymond F. Fowler, R. D. 1, New Waterford, was injured.

Fowler told state patrolmen that he must have fallen asleep while driving towards Columbiana on Route 164 and crashed into the side of the truck driven by Samuel R. Zimmerman of New Castle. Zimmerman was traveling north.

Fowler was admitted to Salem City hospital where his condition today is reported as good. He received severe lacerations of the chest, forehead, left shoulder, hands and left elbow. Zimmerman, who received a bruised leg, did not require hospital treatment.

The car was demolished, patrolmen said, and the truck was badly damaged.

PUT WEDGE IN VALMONTONE LINE IN ITALY

Advances Are Registered Against Strong German Resistance

(By Associated Press)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, June 1.—American doughboys have driven a deep wedge into the enemy's Valmontone line, occupying strategic high points in the historic Alban hills northeast and northwest of Velletri, and now are fighting within sight of Rome.

The advances were won against the strongest kind of German resistance, a communique said today. One salient carried the Americans forward nearly 3,000 yards—more than a mile and one-half.

The Allied command was silent on Velletri itself, but German radio reports indicated the shell and bomb-battered town had been left to the Americans after hot street fighting.

The Eighth army, advancing steadily on Highway 6—the Via Cassina—captured Frosinone, provincial capital 54 miles by road from Rome. Frosinone, with a population of well over 20,000, is the most important town and communications center yet seized in the drive along Highway 6. It fell to British infantry and armor after a sharp battle.

Penetrate Nazi Defenses
A dispatch from Associated Press War Correspondent Edward Kennedy said the Americans broke through the German defenses east of Velletri and fought their way ahead 3,000 yards and occupied a point on Mount Peschio ridge in the Alban hills to the northeast.

Other American elements plunging forward in the vicinity of the Appian way captured dominant high ground near the lake of Neml northwest of Velletri.

"This latter gain brought the Fifth army to 15 airline miles from Rome's gate at Saint John Latran through which the Appian way enters the capital," wrote Kennedy.

From these heights the American infantrymen could see Saint Peter's famous dome rising in dim lines from a hazy mass of buildings that formed Rome.

The Fifth army gains from Valmontone to the Tyrrhenian coast were officially called "limited—but important."

Three miles west of the fortified town of Fossia, armored units crossed the Poncia Di Campoleone, a drainage canal, and maintained steady pressure on the enemy in that area interlaced with canals and ditches.

British troops nearer the coast advanced astride a road north of Ardea, but the extent of their gains was not disclosed.

"Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring continued to increase his defensive forces in the Valmontone area to keep Highway 6 open for German remnants fleeing from the lower battles sectors. It was officially announced that the Allies made some gains in that area despite the stubborn resistance."

The enemy stepped up the pace of his retreat out of the mountain area where the Fifth army's French troops have been moving northward from the Pontine marsh area.

'MISSING' SEAMAN NOW IN HOSPITAL

Richard Franks, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Franks, 464 Perry st., who was reported missing in action by the Navy department last Friday, is now in a base hospital in Hawaii, according to a letter received by his family yesterday.

Franks was supposedly missing at sea and his family received a telegram to that effect last Friday. However, a letter arrived yesterday from the seaman, telling his parents he had been severely burned in an explosion on board a ship near Hawaii. He said he had been taken to a base hospital there and was recovering.

Franks, formerly of Lisbon, enlisted in the Navy in October, 1943, and has been overseas since March. He has been serving on a supply ship in the Pacific.

MONEY IS CONFIDENCE

Inherent in all plans for stabilizing post-war money is the necessity of creating post-war confidence. Stabilized currencies reflect, do not create, confidence. Among the United Nations representatives invited to the parley announced by the White House to convene at Bretton Woods, N. H., in July will be those from China and the French Committee of Liberation, for example. China is in the throes of ruinous inflation brought on by the shortage of everything that vast country needs; France's economy has been devastated by the German occupation.

Any attempt to stabilize—to subsidize their currencies—on the part of wealthier countries would be like pounding sand into a rat hole, unless simultaneously the means of economic recovery go into uninterrupted operation. All the gold and silver above and beneath the ground, all the paper credit and banking devices conceivable, all the ingenuity of money experts are meaningless without continuous production of wealth to give them backing and substance.

A century of peace and production for human needs could create the circumstances of stabilization. The project is not impossible, but its success is improbable without assurance of a long peace and the confidence that the prospect of peace can give the forces of recovery. The parley next July is a step in the right direction, but only a step toward a goal which encompasses nearly all the problems of creating an orderly international society. If similar steps had been taken in good faith starting 20 years ago, the journey might not be starting belatedly in 1944.

SHODDY TACTICS

Herbert Hoover's formal denial of any connection with efforts to influence the nomination of any Republican for the presidency in 1944 calls attention to a curious situation. The charge that Mr. Hoover was active came, of course, from Democratic sources. Republicans long since have developed an attitude toward Mr. Hoover in which he is regarded as an older statesman, not as a politician. They respect his opinions, but do not regard him as an active participant in organization politics.

Democrats, however, are still determined to bring the last drop of political animosity out of Mr. Hoover's occupancy of the White House when the United States staggered under the rebound from World War I. The shoddy tactics they employed successfully in 1932 still hold strong appeal for some of them. They apparently believe there still are votes to be made by smearing Mr. Hoover, but all those votes were made long ago.

"I am taking and expect to take no part in the selection of the Republican nominee," Mr. Hoover declared. "The people and their duly-elected delegates will take care of that themselves."

Democrats, much as they hate it, must swallow the fact that the Republicans in 1944 are going to hold a party convention to select nominees for the presidency and vice presidency of the United States and to write a platform. No one will dictate either the nominees or the platform, which will be in contrast with the situation expected when Democrats meet to ratify what already has been decided for them.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS

The Republican challenge to proper authorities to set the record straight on the right of CIO's well-heeled Political Action committee to operate in the national election outside existing restrictions on other organizations' money contributions will bring a showdown on the committee's status. If its legal advisers have erred, the error had better be revealed now than later.

It is obvious that if their claims are allowed to stand, the subterfuge of non-partisanship will be extended to other groups. The committee is only nominally non-partisan; its efforts are in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt. Whatever similar organization might be created in the guise of non-partisanship to help the candidacy of an opponent would be, therefore, in the same category.

The perennial argument over the source and use of campaign funds will be continued in 1944. There is apparently no way to end it. Each new law which attempts to regulate the raising and spending of money becomes, in turn, an invitation to get around it with new devices. The Political Action committee of CIO is the newest device. If its legality is sustained, it will become the model for others. Atty. Gen. Biddle, who has been handed the hot potato to dispose of, seems to be in another one of those situations of conflict between what he would like to do and "reasonable doubt" of the legal right to do it, like the now famous Montgomery Ward seizure case. Perhaps this time, "reasonable doubt" will prevail.

THE AMERICAN POTENTIAL

The pre-invasion summary revealing that the United States has produced 171,257 planes since Pearl Harbor and is maintaining a production rate two and a-half times that of the Axis is a fair measure of this nation's war potential. It has been failure to estimate it correctly that has frustrated the plans of military aggressors twice in this century.

Even now it cannot be completely appraised; no one knows how much greater it is in planes and all other war equipment than has been realized so far. Our war production, vast as it has been, could have been greater. This country only has approached the limit of its potentialities in war, just as it only has approached, never reached, the limit of its potentialities in peace.

A crowd is not company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures.—Francis Bacon.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, June 2.

A MODERATE degree of success in finance, credit, business and professional advancement is foreseen from the predominant astral configurations. There may be encouragement for expansive and ambitious moves toward attaining cherished goals, in both business and private affairs. Sound judgment toward working out such objectives may circumvent certain threatening or tricky or peculiar circumstances. Keep alert and poised in singular situations, business, socially or romantically. Refrain from overdoing in any direction.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of accomplishment and gratification in all its relations, if they concentrate their unique talents and high ambitions upon sound and worthy objectives. There may be influential support for original and practical plans, although there may be treacherous or envious situations to deal with, by vigilance, keen insight and definite constructive ability, to put over large propositions. Personal prestige and popularity may win good will and practical assistance for promotional enterprises. Curb inclinations toward extravagance, of funds and energies as well.

A child born on this day may have original talents and exalted ambitions, thereby enhancing its prestige and popularity.

Cut out the demagoguery before a committee. That is congress' own specialty and encroachment in this sphere is resented.—National Association of Manufacturers' brochure to businessmen on how to be a good witness.

Until we are prepared to concede that a larger welfare and a higher good than our own national policy must guide decision of an international tribunal, there is no real basis for international cooperation.—Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson.

We've got to provide eight tons of supplies every month—including everything—for each man we bring to the Central Pacific. In the Aleutians the job is 25 per cent greater.—Rear Adm. J. J. Gaffney, Navy Pacific supply chief.

The monthly tonnage of supplies carried into China "over the hump" is now 15 times what it was a year ago.—President Roosevelt.

When the invasion really gets under way there will be more elbow room in England.

Another interesting piece of news would be an uncensored and unabridged opinion of what General Patton had to say with regard to the senators who blocked his promotion.

Any indulgence toward them (younger Nazis) will be indulgence toward trained criminals.—Louis Martin, former government minister recently escaped from France.

Infections From Swimming

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE DAYS OF the old swimming hole are nearly here and with them the days of sinus infection and infected ears in children, says my nose and throat specialist. The old swimming hole is now magnified in most of our cities, towns and villages into the municipal swimming pool or Y. M. C. A. swimming pool with tiled bottom and sides and diving boards and none of the dangers of slippery mud banks or concealed tree trunks or snapping turtles, or poison ivy or snakes. It is a great improvement all right and I don't want to be a kill joy but without precautions there is danger of nasal infections and consequent ear infections from prolonged and under water swimming pool aquatics.

It may come as a complete surprise to you but if you think about it a little you'll see that it is true that human beings were never meant for an underwater existence. This is not entirely to say that they are not fishes, because lots of warm-blooded and air-breathing animals spend a lot of time under water. But such, like the hippopotamus and the porpoise and the manatee and the pelican, were canny enough to get it fixed up with Mother Nature that water doesn't enter their noses or ears.

The pelican, for instance, has no external opening to the nose at all, so that when their beaks are closed, as they are when diving, no water gets into the upper respiratory passages. If you go up real close to a hippopotamus (I get this second hand) you will find that while he has very large nostrils he has a membrane that he can close over them and the nose and throat specialists to the hippopotami tell me he does close them whenever he submerges. So also manatees, seals and alligators. Although the porpoise spends his entire life in the water its nasal mucous membrane is little better adapted than man's to contact with sea water, so it has merged its two nostrils into one and has a membrane that covers this opening which it can close voluntarily when it submerges.

It is not only the possibility of bacterial infection of the nose from contamination of swimming pools—most of them, so far as I can judge are kept clean and hygienic—but the chemical reaction of the mucous membrane of the nose is changed by submersion and this leads to susceptibility to infections and colds.

Fabricant has shown that the normal reaction of the nose is acid. If it is changed to alkaline it is less resistant to infection and, as a matter of confirmation, the nasal secretion, when there is a cold or sinus infection, is alkaline.

Again the mucous membrane of the nose is constantly covered with a blanket of mucous which is also protective and which sea water especially but also fresh water strips off without courtesy. This blanket of mucous is somewhat higher in salt than blood and lymph and tissue so Dr. Martin H. Fischer has found that a salt solution somewhat more hypertonic than the normal salt solution is a better nasal irrigator and protector of infection. He recommends a hypertonic Ringer's solution—best of all (Ringer's solution—sodium chloride, potassium chloride, calcium chloride, sodium bicarbonate, monosodium phosphate and dextrose—any druggist can make it up).

The youngster who is going in for prolonged diving and under water swimming should try to protect the external nose openings from the entrance of water. Also the external ears. Anyone with a perforated ear drum should not be swimming at all. A slightly acid ointment (such as Epsom ointment with ephedrine) applied to the inside of the nose before and after swimming may help to avert the inside of the nose before and trouble.

A Model is Murdered - BABS LEE

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

Argus smiled when he read of the "good authority" from whom the reporter had received his information. He wondered why the young and eager Jones of the air-conditioning company had not gone further and mentioned the machine itself. Perhaps he had not been able to think of a logical connection. Well, that at least was something to be thankful for.

"Want anything, boss?" Butch asked from the doorway.

"Bring the kitchen table in here, will you?"

"Kitchen table? Oh, sure. Sure," Butch shook his head.

Argus got out his tool chest, containing a fine set, which he bought in Germany before the days of the blitz. He placed a piece of newspaper on the floor. Then he produced a small acetylene-welding torch and lighted it. While it was heating up, he unscrewed the top of the air-conditioning unit. When he plugged the machine into a wall socket and snapped on the switch.

He consulted the flashlight photo of the gun mount which he had taken in Syria's apartment. Butch brought in the kitchen table.

Argus fastened a small steel vise on the edge of the table. He clamped to it the revolver handle and the other to fit snugly around the barrel. Time and time again he held the revolver in position by hand and measured to the minute fraction of an inch the length which was required for the clamps. When they were completed he fitted them first on the revolver, then on the gun in place in the machine. After several adjustments, with his pliers, Argus had it set so that the muzzle of the barrel was directly opposite the center hole of the ornamental grill-work. Then he produced several strips of soft lead, and using the burner, welded the metal clamps in place. Again he consulted the photograph. So far, so good, he reflected.

The detective weaved a short loop of wire to the axis-shaft of the fan-blade, just back of the fan itself. This wire he fastened a 20-inch length of stout twine. He snapped the switch one and off quickly. Almost instantaneously the entire 20 inches of twine wrapped about the rapidly revolving shaft.

Argus paused to light a cigarette and exhaled thoughtfully. Then he unwound the twine and fastened a small pulley to the inside back cover of the unit. He passed the twine through the pulley, made a slip-knot at the other end, and attached it to the trigger of the gun.

"There!" he said aloud to himself. "That ought to do the trick!" The detective cocked the pistol and again switched the air-conditioning machine on and off rapidly. The fan-shaft whirled. The slack in the twine was taken up in a second and the pull on the trigger, exerted through the pulley, placed directly behind it, made the hammer snap harmlessly. Again Argus unwound the twine from the shaft, passed it through the pulley and fastened the slip-knot over the trigger. Then he slipped a blank cartridge into the chamber and cocked the pistol again.

"Now for the telephone end," he said aloud. He bent over the bell box, and after opening it, studied the wiring minutely. He lifted the phone from its cradle time after time and finally located the circuit which was broken when the receiver was down. When he had determined his positive and negative wires, he disconnected them at the bell box and experimentally connected them again with the wire leading from the base-pulley to the self-starter of the air-conditioning device.

Again and again Argus shifted the wiring. He was perspiring and he removed his coat. Once he got a shock. Then he donned a pair of rubber gloves and proceeded with greater caution. He found a way to make it work based on the ringing of the telephone bell, but he was not content with that. Desperately, he sought the combination that would cause the air-conditioner to start when the receiver was lifted. He took down from his bookshelf several reference works on electrical installations and studied the wiring patterns. He was sitting cross-legged on the floor when he heard the front doorbell ring.

He heard Butch's voice as he opened the door and then a man said: "Where d'ya want him put, Miss?"

And then Ellen's reply: "Bring him in here."

Two men appeared in the doorway carrying a third man between them. "Just put him on the couch," Ellen ordered. She turned to Argus. "Look what I found."

"Bill Carstairs!" exclaimed Argus.

"I found him in a bar."

The two men deposited young Carstairs on the couch. His face unshaven, suit mussed and a strong odor of alcohol.

"And just what, my Fair One, were you doing in a bar in the middle of the afternoon?" Argus asked.

"One thing at a time," said Ellen. "Tip these men. I haven't anything smaller than a ten."

He paid off the two men and they left.

"Now," asserted Ellen, peeling off her gloves, "to reply to your first question: I was about to pose for a picture in the Granada Bar. When I came in, I saw Bill, and a bartender trying to throw him out, in a genteel way."

"Anyway," observed Argus, "would have been all right."

"I told the bartender I'd be responsible for him if he'd let him stay until we'd finished working."

"That still doesn't explain why you brought him here."

"I'm coming to that. I felt sorry for him."

The recumbent form on the couch turned over, snorted, and wriggled into a more comfortable posture.

"I see," said Argus, staring at Bill. "But he can't stay here. It might interest you to know, my dear, that the police are trying to find Carstairs."

"I know," conceded Ellen, "but I found him. I thought maybe you'd like to question him about what he was doing on Monday night and yesterday."

"So that's it!"

"I called up Dorry and told her to come over and gather him up in a little while. I thought you might want to question her some more, too."

"Real thoughtful of you," said Argus. "We'll just hold open house for all the suspects in the Verne case. Did you invite Dancer?"

"No."

"Allah be praised."

"When I went through Bill's pockets—" Ellen began.

"What! Is there nothing sacred?"

"I thought I was doing right and—"

"Go on."

"Well," Ellen watched Argus uncertainly. "When I went through Bill's pockets to find his home phone number, I found something else."

"The suspense is killing me," snapped Argus.

Ellen was searching frantically through her bag. "Oh, here it is." She handed Argus a folded piece of paper. It was a cancelled check made out to "cash" for five thousand dollars and dated January 25th. But his eyes were riveted to the signature: William Carstairs.

"Look at the endorsement," Ellen said. Argus turned the check over.

Across the top was the name Syria Verne, endorsed in a bold hand. Argus whistled softly.

"What do you make of that?" Ellen asked. "Do you think he was her—angel?"

Argus frowned. "Very likely."

Ellen noticed the machine for the first time and exclaimed, "What on earth are you doing?"

"I'm building an infernal machine to murder pretty models like you. In a little while I'll give you a demonstration."

The doorbell rang.

"That must be Dorry," said Ellen. Argus thrust his coat over the machine and went to answer the door himself.

"Oh, hello, Mr. Sturges!" he said. His voice carried a trace of surprise.

"Come right in!"

"I hope I'm not intruding."

"Not a bit of it—not at all," Pierre Sturges removed his hat and coat.

"I came to see you on business, Mr. Steele—" he paused. He rubbed his long bony hands together and limped into the living room after Argus. He stopped when he saw young Carstairs lying on the couch.

Argus saw a look of dislike in the photographer's eyes.

ANSWERS To Your QUESTIONS About REYN-O-CELL INSULATION

WHAT IS REYN-O-CELL? Reyn-O-Cell is a new type of home insulation. Light, clean, safe and easy to install, it is a 3-inch thick blanket of flame-proofed, heat-resisting cotton, protected on one side by a moisture-vapor proof paper. It comes in easy-to-handle 10-pound sections that unroll like a rug.

WHERE IS REYN-O-CELL INSTALLED?

Reyn-O-Cell is installed in the attic of your home. It comes in standard 16-inch and 24-inch widths and fits snugly between the attic floor joists or the attic rafters. As a general rule, Reyn-O-Cell should be installed at the point where you want to stop the upward flow of heat to save fuel. This means between attic floor joists if the attic is unfinished, or up the rafters and across collar joists if attic is finished.

WHY NOT INSULATE SIDE WALLS?

In completed or occupied houses, the side walls cannot be effectively or economically insulated with any insulation material. It is impossible to fill the stud spaces by any process because of rough plaster, cross braces, fire sills, windows, doors, etc. Frequently, such wall-fills trap moisture due to condensation. This lowers insulation efficiency, causes settling, damp rot and paint blistering, even if it could be done, the savings would be inconsequential compared with the cost.

IS REYN-O-CELL EASY TO INSTALL?

Yes, you can do it yourself in a few hours' time. You don't need any tools. If Reyn-O-Cell is installed between the floor joists. If it is installed between the rafters, all you need is a tack hammer and pair of shears. Every carton contains complete instructions.

HOW DOES IT COMPARE WITH OTHERS?

Reyn-O-Cell is 12 1/2 to 20 percent more effective than any insulation now available. Official rating or "K" factor of Reyn-O-Cell, published by A. S. H. and V. E. Guide, is .24 BTU per hour per square inch per degree difference in temperature. (Authority of the Armour Institute of Technology, Chicago, Illinois.)

WILL REYN-O-CELL SETTLE?

No. On the contrary Reyn-O-Cell fluffs up from vibration to greater thickness. It actually becomes more effective.

WHAT ABOUT VERMIN, ETC?

Reyn-O-Cell is safe. U. S. Department of Agriculture tests certify that cotton insulation, made to Government specifications will not harbor destructive vermin, rodents, insects or germ life.

DOES GOVERNMENT CONTROL PRODUCTION?

Yes. The U. S. Department of Agriculture controls the specifications under which cotton insulation is made.

DOES GOVERNMENT INSPECT REYN-O-CELL?

Yes, it certainly does. There is a Government Inspector in every Reyn-O-Cell plant. Every carton must bear his official stamp of approval.

IS REYN-O-CELL A FIRE HAZARD?

Positively not. It is specially treated. A blow-torch will not ignite it.

HOW LONG WILL REYN-O-CELL LAST?

Reyn-O-Cell does not deteriorate with age. It holds its insulating value indefinitely. Thus, it becomes a lifetime investment in your home.

WHAT DOES REYN-O-CELL COST?

The long term answer to this question is "Nothing." In fact, over the years, Reyn-O-Cell saves you money. You're paying for it—in lost heat—if you don't have it. The actual cost is negligible compared to the lifelong savings. You can insulate the average attic at a cost of approximately $50.00. Some installations cost more, some less, depending on the size and design of the house.

States joint chiefs of staff to fit the over-all strategy of the war.

Stimson said the Air Forces, with a total strength of approximately 2,357,000, has slightly less than half of that personnel already overseas. The AAF has more than 75,000 airplanes, including 34,000 combat planes, he said, and more than one-half of the combat plane strength is overseas, "making the AAF the world's most formidable aerial striking power in point of size and fire power."

Ground Forces Await Action

The movement of ground troops to overseas theaters is just reaching a peak, Stimson said, but already more than half of the ground forces are deployed for action overseas. Shipping is available to take the outfits remaining in this country to the combat zones as the developing campaigns require them.

Outside of continental United States and United States territories, the AAF has approximately 925 bases, of which 750 are air fields including many used by the air transport command, and the others include radio and weather stations, hospitals, depots and storage bases.

"The tremendous growth of the AAF's overseas combat strength," said Stimson, "with an adequate and increasing reserve, just now is bringing United States army aerial striking force to the planned size and power which assures a relentless offensive against the Axis in all theaters."

Stimson said the service forces are executing the "greatest logistics job in the history of the world, supplying forces on every continent with equipment for use in all climates and over all types of terrain."

In May alone, the service forces moved almost four million measurement tons of Army cargo overseas, almost twice the tonnage of May 1943, and compared with the peak month in the World War—$29,000 measurement tons in November 1918.

55,150 Casualties In Italy

The secretary said substantial progress had been made in the Italian fighting and "our position today is satisfactory."

Stimson said "these Germans have been stubborn, bitter fighters," who had to be driven back from one vantage point to another, often in hand-to-hand fighting, but that the successes in the Mediterranean theater to date should be encouraging.

The Italian campaign, since the landing last September through May 27, has cost 55,150 American casualties, Stimson reported. Of these 9,686 were killed, 36,910 wounded and 8,554 missing.

Browns And Yankees Tied For First In American League

NIGHT GAME PUTS ST. LOUIS IN TIE AFTER 11 INNINGS

Relief Role Pays Off For Veteran Hollingsworth As Browns Nip Nats

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Four rookie pitchers celebrated their first big league victories today but the biggest thrill went to Al Hollingsworth, 34-year-old veteran of 17 baseball campaigns, who graduated into the 1944 win by boosting the St. Louis Browns into a first place tie with the New York Yankees.

Hollingsworth's relief chore went on in the eighth of the ledger when the Browns scored two runs in the ninth to tie Washington and went on to a 4-3 verdict in 11 night innings.

Yanks Fall
As Joe McCarthy's clan had fallen before Detroit, 6-2, in the afternoon, St. Louis moved into a percentage point tie for the lead at .571 although they have played seven more games, won four more and lost three more than the champs.

Forest Orrell engineered Detroit's third straight over New York in a relief role as pinch-hitter Al Unser belted Walt Dubiel for a bases-loaded home run with two out in the last of the ninth.

Specs Kileman of the Cleveland Indians also passed the test in the role of a fireman, getting his first major league triumph after replacing Vern Kennedy in Cleveland's 7-4 edge over Boston.

Brooklyn Rookie Wins
Calvin Coolidge McLish, 18-year-old graduate of Oklahoma City's American Legion team, made the grade for Brooklyn after two losing efforts by turning back Pittsburgh with five hits for an 8-4 win. Dixie Walker boosted his bulging average to .436 on a double and two singles before the Brooks' night crowd of 14,773.

Frank Seward of the New York Giants was the fourth member of the "I won my first one" class as he survived a wobbly first inning to beat Chicago, 8-5. Nap Reyes dug himself in at third base with two home runs and a single that drove in six Giant runs.

Ends Winning Streak
Max Lanier's six-game winning streak went by the boards as Boston pounded out a 5-1 edge behind Red Barrett. Max Macon and Connie Ryan belted round trippers for the winners.

Ed Northey emerged from a hitting slump to single home Jimmy Wascell with the telling run as Charley Schanz hurled the Phils to a 5-4 nod over Cincinnati.

The Philadelphia-Chicago game in the American was rained out after three innings with the A's leading 2-0.

WIN OVER BOSTON PUTS TRIBE SIXTH, 4 GAMES FROM TOP

Victory Is Third Over Red Sox In Two Days For Improving Indians

CLEVELAND, June 1.—Sporting a three-game winning streak, Cleveland's Indians today had advanced one notch to sixth place in the American league standings and were only four games removed from the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, now deadlocked for the lead.

In defeating the Boston Red Sox 7 to 4 yesterday for the third time in two days, the Tribesmen took full advantage of four Boston misdeeds to score four unearned runs.

Even so, the Indians had to use two pitchers to clinch the game. Vern Kennedy started but was replaced by Ed Kileman in the fifth after issuing seven bases on balls. Kennedy gave the Sox their first run in the second when he walked Hal Wagner, Skeeter Newsome and Pitcher Oscar Judd in succession after Bobby Doerf had doubled.

The Tribe hurled forced another run across the plate in the fifth by walking Judd, George Metkovich, Jim Bucher and Pete Fox. Kileman came in and put down the rally by forcing Manager Joe Cronin to hit into a double play.

The Indians' big inning was the third when five failures were produced. Kennedy started it by beating out a slow roller to short. Manager Lou Boudreau walked and Mickey Rocco flied out for the second out but Roy Cullenbine rapped a double to score Kennedy. Pat Seery was given an intentional pass to jam the bases and Oris Hockett pasted a single to send Boudreau and Cullenbine home. Buddy Rosar walked to fill the bases again and then Newsome let Keltner's grounder go through him and Seery and Hockett crossed the plate.

The clubs end their four-game series today with Hal Kline hurling for the Indians against Jow Boam.
